Greetings!

MAM brings you a Malaysian First! The National Conference on Early Childhood Care & Education (NCECCE 2008) aims to gather the opinions and perspectives of our region's best educators and practitioners. We aspire to push the agenda of providing a platform whereby the discussions tabled can be taken further to establish an effective working ground for pre-school owners and practitioners.

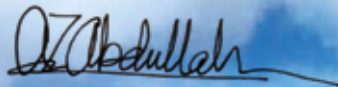

The development of our children at their early stages have become more important these days, with currently more and more parents looking at sharing their responsibility with nurseries and kindergartens in exchange for their quality time at work. We are concerned not only in this ever changing trend, but more importantly on the fact that few are readily capable to truly adapt and thus able to offer the best in the interests of upholding a child's true rights.

NCECCE 2008 intends to initiate this movement involving children, schools, teachers, parents, grandparents, youth and the relevant private sector and governing bodies by ensuring what's best for our children can be easily delivered to them effectively.

The Conference theme "Bringing Out The Best In Children Naturally" speaks of the importance in early childhood development, specifically shaping a child's growth in the most natural way, as it is essential that the roots for its development are kept strong from the foundation level.

Join us, in this concerted effort for the future of our nation. The number of participants is limited so if you are interested please contact us as soon as possible. Additional details will be provided once you complete the registration process.

We look forward to your participation in this important initiative. Register now for a chance to grab the early bird tickets!
